Plaintiffs,

ORDER

12

13

Kathleen Sebelius, Secretary of United States Department of Health and Human Services,

14

Defendant.

15

16 Putative class Plaintiffs, Medicare beneficiaries and an attorney representing 17 beneficiaries, challenge the collection practices and procedures employed by Defendant's 18 Center for Medicare & Medicare Services (CMS) program for reimbursement under Medicare 19 as Secondary Payer (MSP) provisions.¹ The questions before the Court are purely legal: 1) 20 whether Defendant can require prepayment of a MSP reimbursement claim before the correct 21 amount is administratively determined where the beneficiary either appeals or seeks a waiver 22 of the MSP reimbursement claim, and 2) whether Defendant can hold plaintiffs-attorneys 23 financially responsible for MSP reimbursement if they do not hold or immediately turn over to 24 Medicare their clients' injury compensation awards. Both questions are answered as a matter 25 of statutory construction. The Court does not reach Plaintiffs' due process arguments.

26 Plaintiffs seek a declaratory judgment that the Secretary's practices are not authorized 27 by Congress, not a permissive interpretation of the statute, and violate the Due Process Clause 28 of the United States Constitution. Plaintiffs seek declaratory judgment and an injunction ¹The Court refers to the Defendant, herein, as the Secretary.

1 preventing her from continuing to engage in the challenged practices. Plaintiffs seek class 2 certification for the beneficiaries.

3 The Court finds the statutory scheme created by Congress for the MSP program 4 precludes the Secretary's practices. The Court grants summary judgment for the Plaintiffs. The 5 Court does not reach the Plaintiffs' due process arguments. The Court certifies the case as a 6 class action for the beneficiaries.

7 Standard of Review for Summary Judgment

8 On summary judgment, the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law if the 9 Court determines that in the record before it there exists "no genuine issue as to material fact." 10 Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(a). In determining whether to grant summary judgment, the Court views the 11 facts and inferences from these facts in the light most favorable to the non-moving party.
12 Matsushita Elec. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 577 (1986).

13 The mere existence of some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat 14 an otherwise properly supported motion for summary judgment; the requirement is that there 15 be no genuine issue of material fact. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247-48 16 (1986). A material fact is any factual dispute that might effect the outcome of the case under the 17 governing substantive law. Id. at 248. A factual dispute is genuine if the evidence is such that 18 a reasonable jury could resolve the dispute in favor of the non-moving party. Id.

19 The moving party bears the initial burden of demonstrating the absence of a genuine 20 issue of material fact, but is not required to support its motion with affidavits or other similar 21 materials negating the opponent's claim. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323-325 22 (1986). The moving party is under no obligation to negate or disprove matters on which the 23 non-moving party bears the burden of proof at trial. Id. at 325. Rather, the moving party need 24 only demonstrate that there is an absence of evidence to support the non-moving party's case.
25 Id.

26 The burden then shifts to the non-moving party to "designate 'specific facts showing that 27 there is a genuine issue for trial.'" Id. at 324 (quoting Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(e)). To carry this burden, 28 the party opposing a motion for summary judgment cannot rest upon mere allegations or denials

1 in the pleadings or papers. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252. The non-moving party must "do more 2 than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts." Matsushita, 3 475 U.S. at 586. "The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence ... will be insufficient; there 4 must be evidence on which the jury could reasonably find for the [non-moving party]."
5 Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252.

6 Motions for summary judgment are not a disfavored procedural shortcut, but rather are 7 an integral part of the Federal Rules as a whole, which are designed "to secure just, speedy and 8 inexpensive determination of every action." Celotex, 477 U.S. at 327. Accordingly, the rules 9 governing motions for summary judgment should be enforced with regard not just for rights of 10 the nonmovant, but also for the rights of the party contending that there exists no genuine issue 11 of material fact. Id.

12 The Judge's role on a motion for summary judgment is not to determine the truth of the 13 matter or to weigh the evidence, or determine credibility, but to determine whether there is a 14 genuine issue for trial. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252. The inquiry mirrors the standard for a 15 directed verdict: whether the evidence presented reveals a factual disagreement requiring 16 submission to a jury or whether evidence is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter 17 of law.

18 Overview: Medicare Secondary Payer (MSP) Recovery Program

19 The Medicare statutes provide for Medicare to be the secondary payer whenever there 20 is other insurance that covers health care for Medicare beneficiaries, but requires Medicare to 21 make a conditional payment for the care when a primary insurer does not pay promptly. 42 22 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2). Medicare's payment is conditioned on reimbursement before the 23 expiration of 60 days after Medicare receives notice or other information that payment has been 24 or should be made from another source, and the Secretary may charge interest until 25 reimbursement is made. Id. She may waive (in whole or part) the reimbursement requirement, 26 if she determines that waiver is in the best interests of the program. 42 U.S.C. § 27 1395y(b)(2)(B)(v).
28

1 The Medicare statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1395ff, also provides for administrative review and 2 appeal rights to beneficiaries to resolve MSP claim disputes.

3 Plaintiffs challenge the Defendant's 60-day requirement for immediate payment, with 4 interest otherwise accruing, for reimbursement claims when beneficiaries wish to appeal or 5 request a waiver of the reimbursement amount and the use of scare tactics accompanying its pre-6 decisional reimbursement demands, such as: imposition of exorbitant interest on unpaid claims; 7 threats of cessation of the beneficiary's Social Security or Railroad Retirement payments, and 8 collection referrals to several federal law enforcement agencies.

9 The Defendant argues that her procedures fully comply with the terms of the statute and 10 fully protect Plaintiffs' due process rights while ensuring the important public interest in the 11 fiscal integrity of Medicare.

12 "[T]he nature of MSP monies reimbursable to Medicare, as opposed to non-MSP monies 13 to which Medicare is not entitled, is not always discernible with pinpoint accuracy at the time 14 a Medicare beneficiary becomes entitled to a settlement check . . . which in whole or in part is 15 meant to encompass medical expenses previously "conditionally" paid by Medicare." Wall v.
16 Leavitt, 2008 WL 4737164 *1 (E.D. Calif. 2008). In Plaintiffs' cases, they were injured, 17 received medical services, which were conditionally paid for by Medicare, subsequently 18 received settlement proceeds from a primary payer, i.e., liability insurance company, were 19 notified by Defendant, pursuant to a demand letter, of a reimbursement claim in a specified 20 amount, which each respective plaintiff disputed. The demand letters informed the plaintiffs 21 and plaintiffs-attorneys that the reimbursement claim must be paid within 60 days or interest 22 of 11.375% would begin to accrue and collection actions could be initiated. (P's MSJ at 3-7; 23 D's MSJ at 9-14) Plaintiffs' attorneys were given similar notice, but were additionally told that 24 "Medicare's claim must be paid up front out of settlement proceeds before any distribution 25 occurs." (D's Memorandum in Support of Motion to Dismiss (doc. 16), Ex. 3: letter of 26 4/18/2007 to Van Osteen (attorney for Plaintiff Haro)), see also (P's MSJ at 7-8; D's MSJ at 14-27 16).

1 The Secretary submits she has revised the notice given beneficiaries. (D’s MSJ, Ex. 31: 2 Attachment E, Bates Stamp (BS) 302-306.) While she has changed the demand for immediate 3 payment from “must pay” to “should pay” the revised notice continues in the same vein as the 4 demand letters sent to the Plaintiffs in this case. First, it obfuscates the effect an appeal or 5 waiver has on “what happens” if the beneficiary does not immediately repay Medicare, id. at 6 BS 305, and fails to include language explaining that filing an appeal or waiver will suspend 7 collection activities until agency review results in a final determination and then if the 8 beneficiary “chose to retain the amount in dispute, the Secretary shall collect from the debtor 9 the amount determined to be due, plus interest.” Infra p. 14 (quoting 45 C.F.R. § 30.18(h)(1)).

10 Additionally, the paragraph outlining the recovery measures the Secretary may take when 11 a beneficiary does not “repay Medicare in full,” is confusing. It has been revised to include 12 language that she will not refer recovery actions to the Department of Treasury for collection, 13 pending administrative or judicial review, but suggests a beneficiary may be subject to other 14 recovery measures and fails to address what happens upon a waiver request. (D’s MSJ, Ex.
15 31: Attachment E at BS 305.)

16 The Court finds that Plaintiffs’ claims are not resolved by the revised notice. Directives 17 to both beneficiaries and attorneys, provided by the Secretary on the Medicare website and in 18 the on-line Medicare Manual correspond to the information challenged by the Plaintiffs 19 contained in the notices distributed to the Plaintiffs in this case. See (Motion for Class 20 Certification at 2-5 (describing on-line materials).

21 MSP statute: 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)

22 Congress enacted Medicare in 1965, “a federally funded program of health insurance for 23 the aged, disabled and persons suffering from end-stage renal disease.” (Ds’ MSJ at 4.) The 24 Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services is charged with broad authority to 25 “prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the administration of the insurance 26 programs under this subchapter.” Id. (citing 42 U.S.C. § 1395hh(a)(1)). She acts through the 27 Administrator of the CMS program.
28

1 In 1980, Congress enacted the MSP provisions at issue in this case in an effort to “stem
2 the skyrocketing costs of the Medicare program.” Id. (citation omitted). The MSP provisions 3 “– require liability and no-fault insurance to be the primary payers for services rendered to 4 Medicare beneficiaries, leaving the Medicare program to provide benefits only as a ‘secondary’ 5 payer.” Id. (citation omitted). Two mechanisms protect Medicare funds and ensure that 6 Medicare is the secondary payer.

7 First, section 1395y(b)(2)(A)(i) prohibits Medicare from making payments for covered 8 medical items and services if payment has already been made or can reasonably be expected to 9 be made by another source with primary payer responsibility. Medicare is directed to not pay 10 benefits when “payment has been made or can reasonably be expected to be made under . . . an 11 automobile or liability insurance policy or plan (including self insured plan) or under no fault 12 insurance.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(A)(ii). “A ‘primary plan’ is ‘a group health plan or large 13 group health plan, . . . and a workers’ compensation law or plan, an automobile or liability 14 insurance policy or plan (including a self-insured plan), or no-fault insurance An entity that 15 engages in a business, trade, or profession shall be deemed to have a self-insured plan if it 16 carries its own risk (whether by a failure to obtain insurance, or otherwise) in whole or part.”
17 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(A).

18 Second, any Medicare payment to which subparagraph A, above, applies is conditioned 19 on reimbursement when notice or other information demonstrates that the primary plan has or 20 had a responsibility to make payment with respect to a service or item. This mechanism permits 21 a beneficiary to receive needed medical care, while ensuring that the Medicare Trust Funds will 22 be reimbursed when payment becomes available from another source with primary payment 23 responsibility. (Ds’ MSJ at 5) (citation omitted). “Both the Medicare Payer statutory provisions 24 and the applicable regulations require a beneficiary to reimburse Medicare within 60 days of 25 receiving payment from a primary plan.” Id. (citing 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii); 42 C.F.R.
26 § 411.24(h)). Plaintiffs challenge whether this provision authorizes the Secretary to require a 27 beneficiary to reimburse Medicare within 60 days of receiving payment from a primary plan, 28 when the reimbursement claim is disputed by the beneficiary.

1 Subsection B of section 1395y(b)(2) is captioned: “Repayment required.” It is broken 2 into six subsections, as follows: (i) “Authority to make conditional payment”; (ii) “Primary 3 plans”; (iii) “Action by United States”; (iv) “Subrogation rights”; (v) “Waiver of rights,” and 4 (vi) “Claims-filing period.” The subsections at issue here are (i) through (iii).

5 Subsection (i) provides generally for the Secretary to make a conditional payment with 6 respect to an item or service if a primary plan has not made or cannot reasonably be expected 7 to make payment promptly.

8 Subsection (ii), Primary plans, provides as follows:

9 A primary plan, and an entity that receives payment from a primary plan, shall 10 reimburse the appropriate [Medicare] Trust Fund for any payment made by the 11 Secretary under this subchapter with respect to an item or service if it is 12 demonstrated that such primary plan has or had a responsibility to make payment 13 with respect to such item or service. A primary plan's responsibility for such 14 payment may be demonstrated by a judgment, a payment conditioned upon the 15 recipient's compromise, waiver, or release (whether or not there is a determination 16 or admission of liability) of payment for items or services included in a claim 17 against the primary plan or the primary plan's insured, or by other means. If 18 reimbursement is not made to the appropriate Trust Fund before the expiration of 19 the 60-day period that begins on the date notice of, or information related to, a 20 primary plan's responsibility for such payment or other information is received, 21 the Secretary may charge interest (beginning with the date on which the notice 22 or other information is received) on the amount of the reimbursement until 23 reimbursement is made (at a rate determined by the Secretary in accordance with 24 regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury applicable to charges for late 25 payments).

26 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) (2010) (emphasis added).

27 Subsection (iii) provides a cause of action to the United States to recover payment 28 against “any and all entities that are or were required or responsible (directly, as an insurer or self-insurer, as a third-party administrator . . . or other-wise) to make payment with respect to [a Medicare] item or service . . . under a primary plan . . . and may in accordance with paragraph (3)(A) collect double damages. In addition, the United States may recover from any entity that has received payment from a primary plan or from the proceeds of a primary plan’s payment to any entity.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iii) (2010). The provision for double damages is expressly included under the statutes enforcement section, 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(3)(A), “in the case of a primary plan which fails to provide for primary payment (or appropriate reimbursement) . . .”

1 The Secretary's regulations provide, "Special rules [] [i]n the case of liability insurance
2 settlements . . . If Medicare is not reimbursed . . . , the primary payer must reimburse Medicare 3 even though it has already reimbursed the beneficiary or other party." 42 C.F.R. § 411.24(i).

4 The Ninth Circuit considered the MSP statute, section 1395y(b)(2)(B), in Zinman v.
5 Shalala, 67 F.3d 841 (9th Cir. 1995), which at that time included only five subsections because 6 today's subsection (i) and (ii) were combined then as subsection (i), and the current subsection 7 (iii) was then subsection (ii) and reached only primary plans," but subsection (ii) in 1995
8 provided the United States with a cause of action against an entity receiving payment from a 9 primary plan and by regulation the Secretary defined an entity as "a supplier, beneficiary, 10 attorney, State agency, or private insurer." 42 C.F.R. § 411.24(g).

11 In Zinman, Medicare beneficiaries brought an action challenging the interpretation of this 12 statute by the Health and Human Services Secretary (HHS)² to allow recovery of an amount 13 equal to the Medicare payment or the amount paid by the third-party primary payer, which ever 14 is less, when beneficiaries' liability settlements are less than their total damages. The court 15 rejected the beneficiaries' argument that the recovery should be reduced proportionately when 16 a beneficiary received a discounted settlement, so for example, if the victim recovered only 25% 17 of her claim, Medicare should recover no more that 25% of its outlay.

18 The beneficiaries argued that on its face the MSP legislation mandated apportionment 19 rather than full recovery of conditional Medicare payments when there was a discounted 20 settlement. They argued that Congress intended to limit Medicare's right to reimbursement to 21 the extent the beneficiary's settlement actually covered the items or services for which Medicare
22 paid. The court agreed that the statutory references to "items or services" defines Medicare's 23 right to reimbursement, but found nothing in the statute suggesting Congress intended to limit 24 the amount of this recovery. Therefore, Medicare is entitled to full recovery of what it 25 conditionally paid for these items or services.

27 ²In 1995, HHS served in place of CMS as the program for administering reimbursement 28 under MSP provisions.

1 The beneficiaries argued that subsection iii, now iv, subrogated the United States to the 2 rights of individuals or other entities, putting HHS in the position of the beneficiary in order to 3 recover from third-party primary payers who are legally responsible to the beneficiary for a loss.
4 The right of subrogation is equitable in nature and generally requires application of the equitable 5 principle of apportionment. The court rejected the argument. The court found that the MSP 6 legislation did not confine the right to reimbursement to subrogation, but also provided “an 7 independent right of recovery against any entity that is responsible for payment of or that has 8 received payment for Medicare-related items or services, including the beneficiary herself.” Id.
9 at 844-45 (citing 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(B)(2)(ii)). Relying on United States v. Travelers Insur.
10 Co., 815 F. Supp. 521, 523 (Conn. 1992); Provident Life & Accident Insur. Co. v. United States, 11 740 F. Supp. 492, 501 (Tenn. 1990), the court found this independent right of recovery to be 12 separate and distinct from the right of subrogation, and not limited by the equitable principle 13 of apportionment. Id. at 845. “Moreover, to define Medicare’s right to recover its conditional 14 payments solely by reference to its right of subrogation would render superfluous the alternative 15 remedy of the independent right of recovery contained in section 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii).” Id., but 16 see In re Dow Corning Corp., 250 B.R. 298, 342 (Mich. 2000) (explaining purpose of direct 17 action MSP provision is to circumvent common law rule barring direct tort actions against 18 liability insurers prior to a judgment being entered against the insured tortfeasor).

19 The Zinman court also considered statutory provisions requiring the coordination of 20 benefits, which are not at issue in this case. Concluding that the statute did not address the issue 21 of apportioned recovery either by its language or structure, the court turned to the second step 22 outlined by the Supreme Court in Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council,
23 Inc., 467 U.S. 837, 842 (1984): whether HHS’s construction of the MSP statute was a 24 permissible one. Zinman, 67 F.3d at 843. The court held it was a rational construction of the 25 MSP provisions to allow full reimbursement of conditional Medicare payments, even though 26 the beneficiary receives a discounted settlement because it provides a practical and economical 27 way for Medicare to recover its conditional payments. Id. at 845. In the hypothetical case, the 28 injured victim alleged a variety of damages, some capable of precise computation and some not.

1 The court found that allowing the government to recover the full amount of its conditional 2 payments, regardless of a victim's allegations as to type of damages, avoids the commitment 3 of federal resources to the task of ascertaining the dollar amount of each element of a victims
4 alleged damages. Id. It was rational to construe the legislation to permit Medicare to recover 5 up to the full amount of its conditional payments to avoid the difficulty of apportioning damages 6 in the context of tort claims. Id.

7 The court in Zinman accepted the undisputed right of the Secretary to seek 8 reimbursement from "a primary plan, and an entity that receives payment from a primary plan."
9 It based its decision on subsection (ii), now subsection (iii), which provided: "the United States 10 may bring an action against any entity which is required or responsible under this subsection 11 to pay with respect to such item or service (or any portion thereof) under a primary plan (and 12 may, in accordance with paragraph (3)(A) collect double damages against that entity), or against 13 any other entity (including any physician or provider) that has received payment from that entity 14 with respect to the item or service, and may join or intervene in any action related to the events 15 that gave rise to the need for the item or service." 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) (1995).³

16 The first clause applies to actions against primary plans and the second clause applies 17 to actions against "any entity that has received payment, directly or indirectly, from a primary 18 plan. The Secretary interpreted the statute broadly to define an "entity" to include: "a supplier, 19 beneficiary, attorney, State agency, or private insurer." 42 C.F.R. § 411.24(g). The court in 20 Zinman did not consider whether statutory provisions applicable to a primary plan apply equally 21 to claims against beneficiaries. Zinman does not answer the question posed by the Plaintiffs, 22 as to whether the 60-day payment requirement, with interest otherwise accruing, applies to

25 ³Currently, the statute reads: ". . . the United States may: 1) bring an action against any or all 26 entities that are or were required or responsible (directly, as an insurer . . .) to make payment 27 with respect to [a Medicare] item or service . . . under a primary plan . . . [and] may, in 28 accordance with paragraph (3)(A) collect double damages against any such entity" and 2) "may recover from any entity that has received payment from a primary plan or from the proceeds of a primary plan's payment to any entity." 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iii) (2010).

1 beneficiaries, when there is a disputed reimbursement claim. The Court turns to Chevron for 2 the answer.

3 Chevron v. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc.

4 In interpreting a statute, we look first to the plain language of the statute, construing the 5 provisions of the entire law, including its object and policy, to ascertain the intent of Congress.
6 Northwest Forest Resource Council v. Glickman, 82 F.3d 825, 830 (9th Cir.1996). Questions 7 are answered by Congress, if it has spoken on the matter. Chevron, 467 U.S. at 842-43.

8 Looking first to the statutory language, the Court considers that the caption to subsection 9 (ii) is expressly limited to “primary payers.” See Almendarez-Torres v. United States, 523 U.S.
10 224, 234 (1998) (title of a statute and heading of a section are helpful tools for resolving the 11 meaning of a statute). Before 2003, MSP focused solely on the insurance industry, allowing the 12 government to recover only from primary plans and entities, such as any physician or provider, 13 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) (2002), and the statute was recognizably narrower than the 14 Secretary’s definition adding beneficiaries, attorneys, state agencies, and private insurer, 42 15 C.F.R. § 411.24(g). Arguably, even by the Secretary’s broader definition all were “entities that 16 would be receiving payment from a primary insurer under a claim of right or entitlement to 17 retain it.” United States v. Baxter International, Inc., 345 F.3d 866, 906 (11th Cir. 2003). The 18 general legal definition of an entity is: “an organization (such as a business or a governmental 19 unit) that has a legal identity apart from its members,” Black’s Law Dictionary 573 (8th ed.
20 2004), and its common meaning is “as an existing thing,” Merriam-Webster’s Collegiate 21 Dictionary 377 (1979). Unless otherwise defined, words will be interpreted as taking their 22 ordinary, contemporary, common meaning. United States v. Maciel-Alcala, 612 F.3d 1092, 23 1096 (9th Cir. 2010).

24 While the purpose of the MSP provisions has been generally described as “to ensure the 25 fiscal integrity of Medicare,” (D’s MSJ at 1, 3) or to reduce Medicare costs, Zinman, 67 F.3d 26 at 845, “[t]he courts have uniformly recognized that the MSP statute’s clear purpose was to 27 grant the government a right to recover Medicare costs from insurance entities.” In re Silicone
28 Gel Breast Implants Product Liability Litigation (MDL 926), United States v. Baxter

1 International Inc., 174 F. Supp. 2d 1242, 1253 (Ala. 2001), affirmed in part, reversed in part,
2 Baxter International, 345 F.3d at 889 (relying on legislative history indicating MSP originated 3 as a device to recoup payments from automobile insurance coverage (citing Mason v. American 4 Tobacco Co., 212 F. Supp. 2d 88, 93 (E.D. N.Y. 2002) (quoting original House bill, H.R. Rep.
5 No. 98-432 at 1803 (1983), reprinted in 1984 U.S.C.C.A.N. 697, 1417); see also In re Dow 6 Corning, 244 B.R. at 343 (explaining the flip side to protecting the financial integrity of 7 Medicare is to prevent the unjust enrichment of the tortfeasor or its liability insurer at the 8 expense of the government).

9 Looking specifically at subsection (ii), which contains the 60-day payment and interest 10 provisions challenged by the Plaintiffs, it provides the following directives: 1) a primary plan, 11 and an entity that receives payment from a primary plan, shall reimburse Medicare, 2) if it is 12 demonstrated that the primary plan has or had responsibility to make payment with respect to 13 a Medicare service or item; 3) primary plan responsibility is demonstrated by a judgment or 14 settlement, “whether or not there is a determination or admission of liability), and 4) if 15 reimbursement is not made within 60 days of Medicare receiving a notice or information related 16 to a primary plan’s responsibility for payment, the Secretary may charge interest on the amount 17 of reimbursement from the date of the notice or information until reimbursement is paid.

18 The MSP also includes a provision whereby a beneficiary may ask for and the Secretary 19 may grant a waiver, in whole or part, of the reimbursement requirement, if she determines that 20 waiver is in the best interests of the program. 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(v).

21 The Medicare statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1395ff, provides administrative review and appeal 22 rights for beneficiaries to dispute a MSP claim for reimbursement.

23 In 2003, Congress amended subsection (i) renumbering the subsection captioned 24 “Primary plans” to be subsection (ii) and added the term “entity” to it. Congress also added 25 language to subsection (iii) for actions by the United States against any “or all entities that are 26 or were required or responsible (directly, as an insurer or self-insurer . . . “ to make payment 27 with respect to the same item or service . . . under a primary plan.” Congress added a definition 28 of a “self-insured plan,” which is: “An entity that engages in a business, trade, or profession

1 shall be deemed to have a self-insured plan if it carries its own risk (whether by a failure to 2 obtain insurance, or otherwise) in whole or in part.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(A).

3 The combined impact of these changes allows Medicare to recover directly from 4 tortfeasors, something the government had been unsuccessfully attempting to do in respect to 5 large class action lawsuits involving settlements with Medicare beneficiaries: Mason v. Am.
6 Tobacco Co., 346 F.3d 36, 43 (2nd Cir. 2003); United States v. Phillip Morris, Inc., 116 F.Supp.
7 2d 131, 145-46 (D.D.C. 2000), In re Orthopedic Bone Screw Products Liability Litigation, 202
8 F.R.D. 154, 165 (E.D. Pa. 2001); In re Dow Corning Corp., 250 B.R. at 349. The legislative 9 history reflects that Congress focused MSP reimbursement responsibilities on primary-payer 10 plans, which it broadened in 2003 to prevent tortfeasors from settling directly with beneficiaries 11 without reimbursing Medicare.

12 The 60-day requirement for immediate payment makes sense in respect to a primary plan 13 and self-insurer (tortfeasor) because the government’s claim against them is established upon 14 “a judgment or payment conditioned upon the recipient’s compromise, waiver, or release 15 (whether or not there is a determination or admission of liability) of payment for items or 16 services included in a claim against the primary plan or the primary plan’s insured, or by other 17 means.” Once there is a judgment or settlement, the primary payer’s reimbursement payment 18 is due and owing, and if not made within 60 days, the government may bring an action for 19 double damages against it. 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iii), (3)(A). Upon a judgment or 20 settlement, a beneficiary is positioned differently.

21 Under 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(v), the Secretary may act in the best interest of the 22 program and waive adjustment or recovery of a reimbursement claim “in any case where the 23 incorrect payment has been made . . . with respect to an individual who is without fault . . . if 24 such [recovery] would defeat the purposes of [the Medicare Act or the Social Security Act] or 25 would be against equity and good conscience.” (D’s MSJ at 7 (citing 42 U.S.C. § 1395gg(c) 26 (setting standard for waiver)). The beneficiary may also appeal the amount of the Secretary’s 27 reimbursement claim. 42 U.S.C. § 1395ff.
28

1 The decision by the Secretary denying waiver or the decision as to the amount of the 2 reimbursement claim is made within the context of her authority to make determinations with 3 respect to benefits under part A or part B of the Medicare program. (D’s MSJ at 6-7 (citing 42 4 U.S.C. § 1395ff(a)(1)). The beneficiary’s right to challenge a reimbursement claim includes the 5 right to request redetermination, reconsideration, a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge 6 (ALJ), review of an unfavorable ALJ decision before the Medicare Appeals Council (MAC), 7 and finally judicial review of the Secretary’s final decision. Id. at 7-8. The beneficiary initiates 8 review by filing a request for an appeal within 120 days from receipt of the Demand Letter.
9 (D’s MSJ, Ex. 31, Attachment E at BS 305); 42 C.F.R. § 405.942(a) (filing for redetermination); 10 42 U.S.C. § 1395ff(a)(2)(C) (same).

11 The Secretary makes her decision to require immediate payment from beneficiaries, 12 pursuant to the Debt Collection Improvement Act, which authorizes an agency to collect a debt 13 if an individual is delinquent in its obligation to pay the government. 31 U.S.C. § 3711.
14 “Administrative review of a debt will not suspend the assessment of interest, penalties, and 15 administrative costs.” (D’s MSJ at 19 (citing 45 C.F.R. § 30.18(h)(1)). While agency review 16 is pending, the debtor may pay the debt or be liable for interest and related charges on the 17 uncollected debt. Id. “When ‘agency review results in a final determination that any amount 18 was properly a debt and the debtor chose to retain the amount in dispute, the Secretary shall 19 collect from the debtor the amount determined to be due, plus interest. . . .” Id.

20 Generally, the Secretary may suspend collections on a debt when the debtor has 21 requested a waiver or review of the debt. 45 C.F.R. § 30.29(a)(3). Specifically, “the Secretary 22 shall suspend collection activity during the time required for consideration of the debtor’s 23 request for waiver or administrative review of the debt if the statute under which the request is 24 sought prohibits the Secretary from collecting the debt during that time.” 45 C.F.R. § 25 30.29(c)(1). If the statute does not prohibit collection activity pending consideration of the 26 request, the Secretary may use discretion, but ordinarily will suspend collection upon a request 27 for waiver or review if the Secretary is prohibited by statute or regulation from issuing a refund 28

1 of amounts collected prior to agency consideration of the debtor's request." 45 C.F.R. § 30.29(c)(2).

2 The MSP does not expressly suspend collection activities during the waiver or review 3 period, but it is undisputed that the Defendant may not refund an overpayment of interest.
4 (Order filed 11/30/09 (doc. 30) at 3 n. 1 (citing Motion to Dismiss at 27 n.12). Consequently, 5 it would violate section 30.29(c)(2) if she did as her letters of notice to the Plaintiffs suggest, 6 which is charge and collect interest on the disputed balance remaining after 60 days, prior to 7 resolution of the disputed reimbursement claim. She informs beneficiaries, "If the debt is not 8 fully resolved within 60 days of the date of this letter, interest is due and payable for each full 9 30-day period the debt remains unresolved," id. at 3, and collection efforts may commence "to 10 recover amounts you owe (including accrued interest) . . . ," id. at 3-4. In circumstances where 11 a beneficiary seeks a waiver or appeal, interest cannot be due and owing until the debt amount 12 is determined, pursuant to administrative and judicial review procedures. Contrary to the 13 notices given in this case, the Secretary attests that she suspends collection activities, upon a 14 request for waiver or appeal. (D's MSJ at 6; Attachment 31: Minnick Declaration at ¶ 5-7.)
15 This averment brings her conduct into line with the general practices authorized by 45 C.F.R.
16 § 30.29(a)(3), but does not correct the notices and web site information being provided by her.

17 Pending resolution of the appeal, Plaintiffs argue it is unfair for Medicare to charge a 18 beneficiary the extremely high interest rate of 11.375 percent per annum on the reimbursement 19 claim back to the date of notice because she is precluded from paying the beneficiary the same 20 on the portion of the disputed claim resolved in the beneficiary's favor. Normally, a 21 debtor/claimant has the use of proceeds pending resolution of the dispute, and therefore, the 22 debtor may pay the debt or be liable for interest and related charges on the uncollected debt.
23 45 C.F.R. § 30.18(h)(1). It follows, "When 'agency review results in a final determination that 24 any amount was properly a debt and the debtor chose to retain the amount in dispute, the 25 Secretary shall collect from the debtor the amount determined to be due, plus interest. . . ."
26 Id. There is no need for the Secretary to reimburse interest to a beneficiary, unless she collects 27 the proceeds prior to resolution of the disputed claim.
28

1 The Court finds that the Secretary's application of the 60-day requirement to collect 2 reimbursement claims from beneficiaries that seek a waiver or an appeal is not authorized by 3 the statutory structure created by Congress, but the lack of an express prohibition against 4 initiating collections and the MSP provision that interest accrue from the time of notice creates 5 an ambiguity. Where ambiguity exists, the statutory interpretation of the agency charged with 6 implementing it is entitled to judicial deference, Chevron, 467 U.S. at 844; the second step 7 under Chevron is for the Court to consider whether the Secretary's interpretation of the law is 8 permissible. Zinman, 67 F.3d at 843.

9 The Court finds that the Secretary's application of the 60-day reimbursement requirement 10 to support immediate collection activities against beneficiaries when the reimbursement claim 11 is in dispute is neither rational nor consistent with the statutory scheme providing for waiver and 12 appeal rights. Her interpretation is not permissible because it unnecessarily chills a 13 beneficiary's right to seek a waiver or to dispute the reimbursement claim and reaches beyond 14 the fiscal objectives and policies behind the 60-day reimbursement provision.

15 Congress has ensured the fiscal integrity of the Medicare program by providing double 16 damages against any primary payer that does not ensure she is reimbursed. Congress closed the 17 loophole where tortfeasors settle directly with Medicare beneficiaries. She may also recover 18 against the beneficiary. The MSP provision that interest will accrue from the notice of the 19 settlement, 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii), upon the final determination of a disputed claim, 45
20 C.F.R. § 30.18(h)(1), is strong incentive for beneficiaries to pay what they owe Medicare prior 21 to expiration of the 60-day time period, leaving only the disputed portion of the claim unpaid.
22 Because the MSP statute expressly provides for interest to be calculated from the notice of 23 settlement, the Court finds that the Secretary's calculation of interest, is both authorized and 24 rational. The Secretary is armed with an arsenal of powerful recovery mechanisms, such as 25 those she threatened to launch against the Plaintiffs, such as referring cases to the Department 26 of Justice for prosecution and the Department of Treasury for collection of offsets from Social 27 Security or Railroad Retirement benefits or any other monies payable to the debtor by any 28 agency of the United States, including the Internal Revenue Service. Finally, if she fails to 1 recover the reimbursement claim from the beneficiary, she may proceed against the primary 2 plan, even when it has paid the beneficiary. If, as she asserts, the Secretary's conduct complies

3 with the Court's conclusion, she need only bring her notices, manual and web site information 4 into line with the findings of the Court.

5 Recovery Actions Against Attorneys

6 The Secretary pursues MSP recovery actions against plaintiffs-attorneys to prevent 7 disbursement of settlement proceeds to the beneficiary and as an alternative avenue of recovery.

8 The Secretary proceeds against plaintiffs-attorneys, pursuant to the same statutory 9 authority she exercises against beneficiaries: "A primary plan, and an entity that receives 10 payment from a primary plan, shall reimburse the appropriate [Medicare] Trust Fund for any 11 payment made by the Secretary under this subchapter . . . If reimbursement is not made to the 12 appropriate Trust Fund before the expiration of the 60-day period that begins on the date notice 13 of, . . . , a primary plan's responsibility for such payment . . . is received, the Secretary may 14 charge interest (beginning with the date on which the notice . . . is received) on the amount of 15 the reimbursement until reimbursement is made" 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) (2010) 16 (emphasis added). The Secretary defines an "entity" as: "a beneficiary, provider, supplier, 17 physician, attorney, State agency or private insurer that has received a primary payment." 42 18 C.F.R. § 411.24(g).

19 Having found collection activities are precluded against beneficiaries, pending 20 resolution of waiver requests or appeals, the same would be true as to recovery actions against 21 attorneys. The question remains as to whether the Defendant may preclude plaintiffs-attorneys 22 from disbursing liability proceeds to their clients until after Medicare's claim has been satisfied, 23 or if the client fails to pay the reimbursement claim after proceeds have been disbursed, whether 24 Medicare can recover the reimbursement claim directly from the attorney. Plaintiffs-attorneys 25 challenge the Secretary's authority, to bring a direct action, pursuant to 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii), to 26 impose these requirements on them, which they argue places the attorney in ethical conflict with 27 their Medicare clients. (Ps' MSJ at 20.)
28

1 According to the Secretary's notice to plaintiffs-attorneys, "Medicare's claim must be 2 paid up front out of settlement proceeds before any distribution occurs." Additionally, 3 "Medicare must be paid within 60 days of receipt of proceeds from the third party. Interest may 4 be assessed, if Medicare is not repaid in a timely manner." (D's Memorandum in Support of 5 Motion to Dismiss (doc. 16), Ex. 3: letter of 4/18/2007 to Van Osteen (attorney for Plaintiff 6 Haro)). Like the Secretary's notice to beneficiaries, this notice fails by omission to address 7 appeal and waiver rights and to explain that in such circumstances the beneficiary may choose 8 to retain the amount in dispute until agency review results in a final determination, but will then 9 be subject to collection for the amount determined to be due, plus interest dating back to the 10 date of the notice.

11 Subsequently, the Secretary informs plaintiffs-attorneys that they have essentially the 12 same rights and responsibilities as their clients, the beneficiaries. She writes, as follows:

13 This letter follows our earlier communication in which we advised you or your 14 client that you or your client would be required to repay the Medicare program 15 for the cost of medical care it paid relating to you or your client's liability 16 recovery if you or your client received money from a third party payer for a claim 17 related to you or your client's accident/incident/injury. . . . We have now been 18 advised that you or your client have received such proceeds. This means that 19 Medicare now has a claim against these proceeds in the amount of _____ which 20 represents Medicare's claim after reduction for procurement costs [(attorney fees)]. . . . Medicare regulations require that you or your client pay Medicare within 60 days of the receipt of settlement or insurance proceeds. . . . The law requires that you or your client must repay an overpayment to Medicare unless [waiver] conditions . . . apply to you or your client . . . You or your client may appeal our decision if: you or your client disagree that you or your client have received an overpayment; or you or your client disagree with the amount of overpayment; or you or your client disagree with our decision not to waive the repayment of the overpayment.

21 (Amended Complaint (doc. 6), Ex. B: letter of 12/15/2008 to Plaintiff McNutt.)

22 The Secretary's argument is simple. She argues that the statute gives her authority to 23 recover from any entity that has received payment from a primary plan, whether or not the 24 attorney retains the primary payment or has passed it along to the beneficiary. (D's MSJ at 22.)
25 Plaintiffs argue that the logical interpretation of the statute's right of reimbursement for entities 26 that receive payments from primary plans is that it follows the money so that once settlement 27 proceeds are released to the beneficiary, the Secretary must recover the reimbursement claim 28 from the beneficiary. (P's MSJ at 25.)

1 First, the Court notes that Congress never expressly made attorneys responsible for 2 reimbursement under section 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) as “an entity that receives payment from a 3 primary plan.” Congress originally included statutory examples of entities such as physicians 4 or providers, 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) (2002), and in 2003, Congress omitted examples 5 all together. In dicta in Baxter, the court noted that the Secretary’s regulation reached types of 6 entities broader than the statutory examples, which were physicians and providers, to include 7 examples of entities that would be receiving payment under a claim of right or entitlement to 8 retain it. Baxter, 345 F.3d at 906. This Court agrees with the Baxter court, except for the 9 conclusion as it applies to an attorney, who retains as a right or entitlement only that portion of 10 settlement proceeds that pay for his or her services, an attorney has no right or entitlement to 11 retain any other portion of the settlement awarded his client. The Secretary does not pursue 12 reimbursement from procurement proceeds and, in fact reduces her reimbursement claim “to 13 take account of the cost of procuring the judgment or settlement.” 42 C.F.R. § 411.37(a)(1).
14 Unlike any other claim against an end-point recipient of third-party insurance proceeds, a 15 reimbursement claim against an attorney seeks an other “entity’s” property.

16 Importantly, the regulation expressly provides the appropriate course of action for the 17 Secretary: if the beneficiary or other party receives a third party payment and does not 18 reimburse Medicare, the third party payer must reimburse Medicare even though it has already 19 reimbursed the beneficiary. See 42 C.F.R. § 411.24(h) and (i)(1). Congress expressly allocated 20 this burden to the third-party liability payer that makes its payment to a party other than 21 Medicare when it is, or should be, aware that Medicare has made a conditional payment. Id.
22 at § 411.24(i)(2).

23 The Court has found no case which has considered the propriety of direct recovery 24 actions against attorneys, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii) and 42 C.F.R. § 411.24(g), 25 but generally courts and litigants have presumed the correctness of the premise. In United 26 States v. Weinberg, 2002 WL 32356399 (E.D. Pa. July 1, 2002), the government brought an 27 action against an attorney to recoup Medicare payments made on behalf of one of the attorney’s 28

1 former clients.⁴ The beneficiary, Ms. Gaither, was severely injured in an automobile accident 2 on September 28, 1995. She was hospitalized and received care. She had a stroke on 3 November 13, 1995. She sued and obtained a settlement of $750,000. Medicare sought 4 reimbursement of $188,867.27. Defendant Weinberg, her attorney sent Medicare a check for 5 $6,242.27. He argued that Medicare's reimbursement claim was primarily attributable to the 6 stroke which was unrelated to the automobile accident and, further, only $6,242.27 of 7 Medicare's claim was not time barred.

8 The court summarily found that "attorneys who have received settlement funds on behalf 9 of clients who have received Medicare benefits may be subject to a direct claim by the 10 Government." Id. at * 3 (citing see e.g. Denekas v. Shalala, 943 F. Supp. 1073, 1080 (Iowa 11 1996) (considering whether MSP provision gives Medicare a reimbursement claim against 12 children of beneficiary to settlement proceeds for loss of consortium)), see also United States 13 v. Sosnowski, 822 F. Supp 570 (Wisconsin 1993) (granting summary judgment in part for the 14 government in recovery action against beneficiary and primary payer and both entities' 15 attorneys, but denying, without explanation, double damages).

16 In Weinberg, the court rejected the statute of limitations argument and arguments of 17 accord and satisfaction. Id. at * 3-6. The court, however, denied summary judgment for the 18 government because a fact issue existed as to the amount of reimbursement; if the stroke was 19 not caused by the accident, Medicare could not seek reimbursement from Mr. Weinberg. Id.
20 at * 6. The court would not estop the attorney from arguing contrary to his vigorously argued 21 statements of relatedness, which he had made on behalf of his client during settlement 22 proceedings, but would allow the government to introduce his prior statements to prove a 23 connection between the reimbursement claim and the beneficiary's accident. Id.

24 The Weinberg case is an example of the general incongruity created by the Secretary's 25 interpretation of section 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii), which requires an attorney to defend himself based 26 on facts specific to the non-party beneficiary. Additionally, Medicare review and appeal

27
28 ⁴The beneficiary was not named in the suit.

1 provisions, 42 U.S.C. § 1395ff, available to the beneficiary do not apply to the attorney, id., see 2 also 42 U.S.C. § 405(b)(1) (listing those who may request review of a decision regarding the 3 rights of an individual as: the individual, a wife, divorced wife, widow, surviving divorced wife, 4 surviving divorced mother, surviving divorced father, husband, divorced husband, widower, 5 surviving divorced husband, child, or parent). So, if not sued by the Secretary, Mr. Weinberg 6 could not have challenged the amount of the reimbursement claim. The Weinberg case also 7 reflects general ethical problems involving the requirement that lawyers who are required to 8 serve as witnesses in a proceeding should be excluded from participating in a case, Lau Ah Yew
9 v. Dulles, 257 F.2d 744, 746 (9th Cir. 1958), and conflict of interest problems where an attorney 10 representing a party is an interested party, TWM Mfg. Co., Inc. v. Dura Corp., 722 F.2d 1261, 11 1267 (6th Cir. 1983).

12 In this case, the plaintiffs-attorney has charged that there is a conflict of interest created 13 between client and attorney by the Secretary's demand that he pay reimbursement claims that 14 are incorrect or for which a hardship waiver would be appropriate. The Rules of the Supreme 15 Court of Arizona, Rule 42, ER 1.3, requires an attorney to act with reasonable diligence and 16 promptness in representing a client, to pursue a matter on behalf of a client despite opposition, 17 obstruction or personal inconvenience to the lawyer, and to take whatever lawful and ethical 18 measures are required to vindicate a client's cause or endeavor. It violates the rule of diligence 19 and is not in a client's best interest, especially an elderly and disabled client with a low income, 20 for an attorney to pay an incorrectly calculated reimbursement claim.

21 E.R. 1.5 provides:

22 (d) upon receiving funds or other property in which a client or third person has 23 an interest, a lawyer shall promptly notify the client or third person. Except as 24 stated in this Rule or otherwise permitted by law or by agreement between the 25 client and the third person, a lawyer shall promptly deliver to the client or third 26 person any funds or other property that the client or third person is entitled to 27 receive and, upon request by the client or third person, shall promptly render a 28 full accounting regarding the property.

26 The Rules of Professional Conduct provide that the lawyer has an ethical duty to protect 27 third-party claims and to refuse to surrender property to a client when the third-party claim has 28 become a matured legal or equitable claim. E.R. 1.5 Comment (2003 amendment), 4. Examples

1 of unmatured legal or equitable claims are: medical bills from the client without a provider 2 demand; unsigned, unrecorded medical liens; medical bills or a demand letter from a provider 3 to an attorney; or knowledge that the provider treated the client for accident related injuries.
4 Ethics Opinion 98-06, State Bar of Arizona. However, “when there are substantial grounds for 5 dispute as to the person entitled to the funds, the lawyer may file an action to have a court
6 resolve the dispute.” Arizona Rule of Professional Conduct E.R. 1.15, Comment (2003 7 Amendment), 4.

8 The plaintiffs-attorney argues that prior to final disposition of a disputed reimbursement
9 claim, Medicare is not a third party entitled to receive the MSP claim because the MSP statute 10 does not create a lien interest, but merely provides for an unperfected claim. “Defendant [does 11 not] assert[] that Medicare has a lien over a beneficiary’s settlement proceeds but, rather, that 12 the statute authorizes Medicare to obtain reimbursement for the conditional payments it makes 13 on behalf of a beneficiary from entities that receive payment from a primary plan which was 14 responsible. And, . . . , the Ninth Circuit has explicitly held that the statute grants the Secretary 15 an independent right of recovery against any such entity.” (D’s MSJ at 21-22 (citing see 16 Zinman, 67 F.3d at 844-845)). The Defendant argues that because the right of recovery is not 17 against specific property, Zinman, 835 F. Supp. 1163, 1171 (N.D. Cal. 1993), she may seek 18 recovery at any time, even after the settlement proceeds are disposed of by the attorney. She 19 argues the statute gives her a right of recovery against the attorney, which “arises on the date 20 notice of payment is received, and which cannot be avoided by distributing the settlement
21 proceeds to the beneficiary. (D’s MSJ at 22.)

22 The Zinman court found only that the Secretary had a direct cause of action, not just a 23 equitable right of subrogation, against a beneficiary. The Zinman court did not answer the 24 question of whether the Secretary has a direct cause of action against an attorney, arising at the 25 time notice is received of a settlement, enforceable even if the attorney has not retained the 26 proceeds.

27 At the very least, if plaintiffs-attorneys’ rights and obligations are the same as 28 beneficiaries, recovery against an attorney is subject to a final determination pending a waiver

1 request or appeal. The Court finds no statutory support, either expressly or in the legislative 2 history, to support the Secretary's assertion that she has a direct cause of action, pursuant to 42 3 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(ii), to recover a reimbursement claim from an attorney that has 4 received payment from a primary plan and has passed it along to the beneficiary. For example, 5 Congress expressly limits the United States from recovering against a third-party plan 6 administrator in cases where the third-party administrator would not be able to recover the 7 amount at issue from the employer or group health plan and is not employed by or under 8 contract with the employer or group health plan at the time the action for recovery is initiated 9 or for whom it provides administrative services due to the insolvency or bankruptcy of the 10 employer or plan. 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iii). See Baxter, 345 F.3d at 907 (finding escrow 11 agent was clearly not of like kind entities, such as those receiving payment under a claim of 12 right or entitlement to retain it, because escrow agent acts in a purely ministerial role to make 13 payments to beneficiaries in a class action). There is no statutory authority, express or implied, 14 to support a direct action against attorneys, except to the extent they are end-point recipients of 15 settlement proceeds.

16 As the Court noted when it discussed the Secretary's interpretation of the MSP statute 17 in respect to the beneficiary, her interpretation is not necessary to protect the fiscal integrity of 18 Medicare. Her right of subrogation and the Rules of Professional Conduct ensure that the 19 lawyer will retain settlement proceeds "when there are substantial grounds for dispute as to the 20 person entitled to the funds." See Wall v. Leavitt, 2008 WL 4737164 * 7-8 (E.D. Calif. 2008) 21 (describing 42 U.S.C. § 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iv), as providing an equitable lien which has been 22 considered by some to be superior to all other claims). The statutory requirement that interest 23 accrues from the point of notice ensures that an attorney, acting in the best interest of his client, 24 will retain and pay over to Medicare the undisputed reimbursement claim.

25 The Court's ruling is narrow and limited to only the Secretary's asserted direct cause of 26 action against plaintiffs-attorneys; she retains all her rights of subrogation under section 27 1395y(b)(2)(B)(iv) and the common law.
28

1 Rule 23(b)(2) provides for the maintenance of a class action if “the party opposing the 2 class has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the class, thereby making 3 appropriate final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the class 4 as a whole[.]” Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(b)(2). Here, Defendant objects to class certification based on 5 typicality. “If a class is certified predominantly for the purpose of providing injunctive relief, 6 this will be less of a concern, since plaintiffs have the same interest as the rest of the proposed 7 class in litigating the [legality of] defendant[‘s] [conduct].” Dodge v. Orange County, 208
8 F.R.D. 79, 89 (N.Y. 2002). Given the narrow scope of the question asked by the plaintiffs-9 beneficiaries, it is clear the challenged policy, collection of reimbursement payments prior to 10 resolution of waiver requests and appeals, applies across the board to all Medicare beneficiaries.

11 The Court certifies the class, as defined as: “persons who are or will be subject to MSP 12 recovery, and from whom defendant has demanded or will demand payment of MSP claims 13 before there have been determinations of the correct amounts through the waiver or appeal 14 process.” The Court certifies the class because of its obvious size, the question posed by the 15 Plaintiffs raise common questions of fact and law as to all beneficiaries so that the named 16 Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the claims of the class, and the class representatives will fairly 17 and adequately protect the interests of the class members. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a). Because the 18 Defendant has acted on grounds generally applicable to the class, Plaintiffs also satisfy at least 19 one subdivision of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b), which is that “the party opposing the class has acted 20 or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the class, thereby making appropriate final 21 injunctive relief with respect to the class as a whole”

22 Finally, certification is important in this case because class membership is a relevant 23 factor in showing an immediate likelihood of future injury for the purpose of establishing 24 plaintiffs’ standing to bring this action. “Where a named plaintiff is a member of a plaintiff 25 class, and ‘members of the class have repeatedly suffered personal injuries in the past that can 26 fairly be traced to the [defendants’] standard practices,’ the defendant’s treatment of the class 27 as a whole must be considered to determine whether the individual plaintiff[s] ‘[have] been and 28 will continue to be aggrieved by the defendants’ [illegal] pattern of conduct.’” Armstrong v.

1 Davis, 275 F.3d 849, 864 (9th Cir. (2001), abrogated on other grounds, (quoting La Duke v.
2 Nelson, 762 F.2d 1318, 1326 (9th Cir. 1985)).

3 The Court appoints class counsel, and finds that they can fairly and adequately represent 4 the class interests. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(1)(B).

5 Accordingly,

6 IT IS ORDERED that Plaintiffs’ Motion to Certify Class Action (doc. 54) is 7 GRANTED and Plaintiffs’ counsel is appointed as class counsel.

8 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the class is certified and defined as follows:
9 “persons who are or will be subject to MSP recovery, and from whom defendant has demanded 10 or will demand payment of MSP claims before there have been determinations of the correct 11 amounts through the waiver or appeal process.”

12 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiffs’ Motion for Summary Judgment (doc. 64) 13 is GRANTED.

14 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant’s Motion for Summary Judgment (doc.
15 69) is DENIED.

16 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant’s demand for payment of her MSP 17 reimbursement claims, under threat of collection actions before there has been a resolution of 18 an appeal regarding the amount of the Defendant’s MSP claim or a waiver request, exceeds her 19 authority under the Medicare statute, and Defendant is enjoined from demanding payment of 20 a MSP reimbursement claim with threats of commencing collection actions before there is a 21 resolution of an appeal or waiver request.

22 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Defendant’s demand that attorneys withhold 23 liability proceeds from clients pending payment of amounts claimed by the Defendant as MSP
24 reimbursement exceeds her authority under the Medicare statute, and Defendant is enjoined 25 from demanding that attorneys withhold liability proceeds from their clients pending payment 26 of disputed MSP reimbursement claims.
